

MAGIC REALISM

Creative Writing Workshop

Meets Tuesdays,
October 19-26
6-8PM

New River Community and Technical College
Jefferson Office Park • Lewisburg, WV

Instructor: Belinda Anderson

Many of the great classics of literature contain a wondrous element called magic realism, from D.H. Lawrence's "The Rocking Horse Winner" to One Hundred Years of Solitude, by Gabriel García Márquez. Magic realism is a technique that presents an utterly impossibility as part of the normal world – it's fun for the writer and a pleasure for the reader. Join author Belinda Anderson, who uses magic realism in her own books, as she discusses how writers sprinkle magical elements into realistic settings. Readers will enjoy the excerpts provided and writers will learn how to make magic realism seem a natural extension of narrative.
